

CHILDREN LEARN WHAT IS MODELED

If your child lives with criticism, your child learns to condemn.

If your child lives with hostility, your child learns to fight.

If your child lives with ridicule, your child learns to be shy.

If your child lives with shame, your child learns to feel guilty.

If your child lives with tolerance, your child learns to be patient.

If your child lives with encouragement, your child learns confidence.

If your child lives with praises, your child learns to appreciate.

If your child lives with fairness, your child learns justice.

If your child lives with security, your child learns to have faith.

If your child lives with acceptance, your child learns to like one's self.

If your child lives with acceptance and friendship, your child learns to love others.
